

Turning Point, Inc. announced that its Board of Directors has appointed Alan J. Klein as the company's President & CEO.

Klein spent a combined 36 years at Robert F. Kennedy Children's Action Corps where his roles ranged from program director to President of the organization. During a brief respite from RFK, he served as Deputy Assistant Commissioner for the Massachusetts Department of Youth Services. Throughout the years Klein has dedicated his efforts to serving on numerous boards and youth-serving committees with various organizations; and he has been a board member of the Massachusetts Association of Approved Private Schools.

Steve Deorocki, Chairman of the Board of Turning Point, Inc. stated "We are very pleased to have Alan leading the TPI organization. With his experience and management abilities he will positively impact our staff and the lives of all our individuals at Turning Point. Under Alan's direction we will be better positioned to expand our services in concert with DDS and focus on growing our Turning 22 Program."

Founded in Newburyport, Massachusetts in 1971, Turning Point is committed to providing exceptional services to individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities. TPI services 150 individuals in 36 homes located in 12 communities across the Merrimack Valley and North Shore. TPI also provides supports to 25 individuals in the Merrimack Valley and the North Shore who receive Individual Support Services.

Alan and his wife Liz, a career RN, live north of Boston and are happiest spending time with their two children, son-in-law and 3 granddaughters.
